OREGON JUDGESHIP IS STILL UNDECIDED

CABINET MEETING DID NOT CONSIDER THE MATTER TODAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30.

The Oregon judgeship was not considered at the Cabinet meeting today. The Attorney-General has not yet had opportunity to read Fulton's answer to Hene's latest charges, but hopes to make his report in a few days. Until he reports, no action will be taken by the President. Attorney-General Wickersham has telegrapher Tracy C. Becker to return to Washington. Becker left before the Attorney-General intended he should. Wickersham wants further information regarding the land fraud cases pending in Oregon, as well as railroad grants. He also desires to talk with Becker regarding complaints pending against him.

President Taft again stated today to callers that he did not consider the appointment of Judges to be a part of the patronage of United States Senators. The President thinks that judicial appointments should be free from political influences. He considers himself to be competent to pass upon the fitness of them for the bench, and will do so. At the same time he said he would be glad to receive suggestions from Senators and Representatives as to their knowledge of the qualifications of applicants. The President has several Federal Judgeships to fill in the near future, and has received many calls from Senators and Representatives from the districts where the vacancies exist.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.

William D. Harrington, proprietor of a saloon, was brought before Superior Judge William P. Lawlor this morning to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. The order was made upon affidavits presented by the prosecution in the case of Patrick Calhoun, charged with bribery, and the documents which were filed today alleged that Harrington had improperly addressed Charles K. Blender, a real estate dealer, who was accepted last week as a juror in the case. Juror Blender called as a witness by Assistant District Attorney John O'Gara was asked to give his account of the incident described in the affidavits, and said: "On Saturday last I went into Harrington's saloon, near my home, and asked for a drink. The bartender served me, but Harrington stepped forward and asked me 'if I was going to hang Calhoun.' The bartender then declared that he recognized me by a picture published in one of the papers.

"I did not answer the question, but informed the men that they should not address me, after which I left, and reported the matter to the court."

While the juror was in the midst of his narrative his fellow jurors entered and took their places in the box, and Patrick Calhoun, some of whose attorneys had preceded him, became a witness of the proceedings. Harrington, upon being called to the stand, positively denied that he had made any such remark to the juror, and declared that he had no recollection of having talked to Blender. In order that the bartender might be summoned to give his testimony, Judge Lawlor continued the matter until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Harriman Wants All Railroads Merged and Consolidated Under One Control

MILLIONS SPENT IMPROVING

Told Roosevelt Five Years Ago That he Was Wrong and That Many States Would Follow His Lead and do Least Amount of Harm.

DENVER, March 30.

If E. H. Harriman could have his way, he would bring all the railroads in America into one giant combination under one head and immediately begin the expenditure of $250,000,000 or $300,000,000 in improving the weaker roads both physically and financially. In that way he says he believes he could do the greatest good for the government, the people of the United States generally, to shippers individually, and finally to the owners of railroad stock.

Harriman spent two hours in Denver today as guest of the Chamber of Commerce, he then departed on his eastward journey. Harriman repeated as certain that he had found a great change in the sentiment toward the railroads and railroad builders on the part of the public. Five years ago he said he told Roosevelt that he (Roosevelt) was wrong and that he would have many imitators in many states who would do the country incalculable harm. "What I told him then has proved correct. Roosevelt was wrong in the fight on me and the railroads and the truth of this is getting clearer every day."

GREAT JETTIES

To Be Constructed Off From Sandy Hook.

NEW YORK, March 30.—In the near future work will be begun on the greatest jetties in the world. They will be constructed at Sandy Hook to check the inroads of the sea which threatens ultimately to sweep the narrow peninsula away. Recent surveys have shown that Sandy Hook is being washed away at an alarming rate, each storm carrying tons and tons of earth and sand into the ocean. The beach line in some places has receded 300 feet or more.

Plans are now completed in Congress having provided $30,000 to start the work, the government will soon ask for bids to construct wooden jetties 3800 feet in length. Nineteen in all will be constructed. One of the greatest troubles that confronts the engineers is that of protecting the big ship targets on the proving grounds. It has already been necessary to move some of the targets to another part of the peninsula, but with the protection planned it is hoped to relieve the situation.

DENVER, March 30.

The jury in the case of John Cradlebaugh, of Wallace, Idaho, on trial for the murder of Frederick W. Walton, this morning brought in a verdict of not guilty. The verdict was reached shortly before midnight last night after two or three jurors had stood out for some time in favor of conviction. Cradlebaugh, who is a prominent Oddfellow of Idaho, shot and killed Walton a few weeks ago at the corner of Sixteenth and Champs streets, after Walton had refused to tell him where Cradlebaughs wife and boy, with whom Walton had come to Denver, were living. Both the "unwritten law" and self-defense were urged in Cradlebaugh's defense, and Mrs. Cradlebaugh herself went upon the stand and told of her relations with Walton in an effort to save her husband from the gallows.

The verdict was received with applause by the crowd which packed the courtroom to suffocation. Cradlebaugh, ashy white, walked about the courtroom for a moment or two after the verdict had been read, his son clasped in his arms, and then returning, shook the hand of each juror and thanked him.

The jury deliberated about five hours, the first ballot standing nine to three for acquittal. Before midnight the vote was unanimous.
